VOL. XXVI.—NO. 10.

MIDDLETOWN, DELAWARE, SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 7, 1903.

PRICE, THREE CENTS

THE U. S. SEPARATOR

May be a little higher price than some other separators, but those who use it find after a short time in use that it is the CHEAPEST, BECAUSE IT GETS ALL THE CREAM, and the longer it is used, the cheaper it will be; for the difference in the quantity of cream saved will soon pay for the Separator. Get a U. S. SEPARATOR, and a "DAVIS SWING CHURN," and you will never regret it.

"The price of COAL is down"—not as low as it should be—but it is down. And the price of Stoves advanced ten percent since 1st January, 1903, on COOKS and HEATERS, but we will continue selling at the SAME OLD PRICES which we made four months ago. Come and get your choice while you have such an opportunity. Our prices must be higher, but for the time being will continue as follows:

"Hazel" Double Heaters No. 14, set up $19.50; No. 16, set up $22.50. "Atlas," "Classic," "Nabian" and "Jewel Oak" Single Heaters, No. 10 to No. 16, at $5.50 to $12.00. "Onkelo" Ranges, Coal or Wood No. 8, $23.50; No. 9, $28.00. "Sunshine" Ranges, Coal or Wood, No. 8, $19.00; No. 9, $22.50. "Iron King" Cook, Coal or Wood No. 7, $17.00; No. 8, $20.00; No. 9, $23.50. "Wyoming" Dockash, Range, Coal or Wood No. 8, $25.00; No. 9, $28.00, WITH THERMOMETER. "Peninsular" Steel oven Range No. 9, $18.50, same stove with Reservoir $25.50. Steel Range "Premier" No. 9, WITH HIGH-CLOSET AND RESERVOIR, no better made, $45.00. Steel Range "Domestic," No. 8, with High-Closets or Reservoirs at correspondingly low prices. All the above Cook Stoves and Ranges are of the very highest and finest grade. We have a great variety of other Cooks and Ranges, coal or wood, and coal Heating Stoves at much lower prices.

The time draws near for House Painting. We keep the most complete stock of PAINTS to be found outside the City. "ATLAS" READY MIXED has stood the test in this community for TWENTY YEARS. "FELTON-SIBLEY" READY MIXED has been the greatest rival to "Atlas," and "RUCH-TRER'S DURABLE" has made a gratifying record. These three Paints are each second to no other Paint made. Dry Paints, Colors, Varnishes, etc. Always on hand.

MARYLAND NOTES

The Chesapeake City Marine Railway and Construction Company has been incorporated at Elkton, with authorized capital of $10,000, and with H. H. Brady, president; John Banks, treasurer; and Elmore Deibert, manager.

The attachment suits against the John J. Ryan Investment Company, of St. Louis, Mo., was tried at the opening of the March term of Court at Elkton on Monday.

An athletic club has been organized at Rising Sun, with Charles Keen as president; Homer Woollens, secretary, and Joseph Cooney, treasurer.

Farmer Seriously Injured.

Thomas Shriver, a farmer living near Elkton, Md., was admitted to the Delaware Hospital, Wilmington, suffering from a fractured skull, a broken leg and arm. He was found Wednesday morning about 2 o'clock south of Elkton, on the railroad tracks. It was supposed he was struck by a train.

Hawks in a Trap

Four hawks, the largest measuring forty-one inches from tip to tip of its wings, were caught recently in a steel-trap by Thomas McIntire on his farm on the Elkton-Glasgow road.

THE FORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT THE ORIGINAL LIVER MEDICINE

A yellow complexion, dizziness, biliousness and a coated tongue are common indications of liver and kidney diseases. Stomach and bowel troubles, severe as they are, give immediate warning by their nature, but liver and kidney troubles, though less painful at first, are much harder to cure. The Ford's Black-Draught never fails to bring fit diseased liver and weakened kidneys. It stirs up the torpid liver to throw off the germs of fever and ague. It is a certain preventive of cholera and Bright's disease of the kidneys. With kidneys reinforced by The Ford's Black-Draught thousands of persons have dwelt immune in the midst of yellow fever. Many families live in perfect health and have no doctor than The Ford's Black-Draught. It is always on hand for use in an emergency and saves many expensive calls of a doctor.

Middleton, S. C., March 10, 1901.

I have used The Ford's Black-Draught for three years and have not had to go to a doctor since I have been using it. It is the best medicine for me that is on the market for liver and kidney troubles and dyspepsia and other complaints. Rev. A. G. LEWIS.

TWO REPUBLICAN SENATORS

When it came it was a surprise. All Republicans have longed for it for years, many had lost faith and almost abandoned hope of such and outcome, and a few have openly advocated a coalition with Democrats. THE TRANSCRIPT has opposed this scheme. We have always believed that the time would come when sober sense rather than factional spirit would resume control of the General Assembly, and our belief has been amply rewarded. Just what influences were exerted to secure the positive withdrawal of Mr. Addicks is known to only those few who were present at the memorable conference held in Philadelphia last Saturday. It is probable that there were several strong arguments presented, and none could be stronger than the fact that there were in the present Legislature several Union Republicans who were in favor of "two senators, even if one of them were not Addicks." The strength of the Union Republicans has been in the solid front maintained by the members of that faction in the legislature. For two entire sessions and for thirty-five ballots, no Union Republican vote had been cast except for J. Edward Addicks. It was plainly evident that he could not be elected, and it was possible if not probable, that at least one Regular Republican would be chosen by the coalition of Republicans and Democrats. If a break in the Union Republican lines were once made, that faction would be in a measure short of its strength. This with other pressure probably brought the happy compromise.

Of the two senators, both are so well known that it is almost useless to write. Senator Ball has been the leader for four years of the Regular Republican organization in this county and has made it what it is. His defeat at the last election for a second term as Representative in Congress made him the logical candidate of the Regulars for senator. We have opposed Senator Allee as the personal and political representative of Mr. Addicks, but for him personally we have the highest regard. He has done for the Union Republicans what Senator Ball has done for the Regulars of this county i. e., built up a superb organization, and while he has made many political enemies, has few personal ones.

This selection of two strong leaders of the opposing factions and their association with the national leaders of the party must tend to end the strife. We do not try to deceive our readers that all is to be harmonious and lovely in the ranks of the party. We know that there will be battles yet to be fought and victories won. But as Gettysburg was the turning point of the Rebellion, so we think that the election of last Monday is the turning point of the political warfare.

TRIOBLE AT FARNHURST

As appears from an article in another column, the Trustees of the State Hospital for the Insane have been requested by Superintendent Hancker to investigate charges made by the former Assistant Superintendent, Curtin, reflecting upon his personal conduct as well as his official character. The Trustees tabled the application of Dr. Curtin for reinstatement and neglected to appoint a committee to look into charges. Dr. Hancker cannot afford, nor can the Trustees, to have the matter remain in this state. The people have not forgotten the disclosures of a few years ago, and they remember that the trouble at that time was brought to light, not by the officials but by a newspaper reporter, posing as "Lord De La Ware." They also remember that when the story was first published, it was treated in much the same manner as this. We do not want to believe that the charges as made by Dr. Curtin are true, but the fact that more than three hundred poor unfortunates, the wards of the State, are penned up in this institution, should urge the Trustees to make the fullest investigation. And if there is one, every attendant should be assured before testifying that nothing said by him should be considered as cause for dismissal or "letting out."

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

What the Law Makers Have Been Doing This Week

The Senate has adopted a substitute resolution on final adjournment. Senator Harrington's resolution proposed March 12th as the date. Senator Sparks' substitute was adopted fixing March 18th as the final day. All legislative business by the two Houses is to be completed at noon on March 17th, the rest of the time to be open for the signing of bills and cleaning up work.

The Senate has concurred in the House bill appropriating $6,000 to be divided equally between the three counties for the colored schools of the State by the vote of 9 to 7. An amendment offered by Senator Jefferson to divide this appropriation equally between the white and colored schools of the State was lost by the strict party vote of 7 to 9, T. C. Moore being absent.

Senator Sparks' bill entitled an "Act for the Protection of Minors" has been killed. The bill provided that whenever a minor sells or gives away to a minor under the age of 14 years an air gun, rifle gun, shot gun, revolver or any other firearm, knowingly permits it to be of access or used by such minor, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding $100 or shall be imprisoned for a term not exceeding thirty days, or both at the discretion of the court. The bill also prohibited the sale of any toy pistols and the company or persons who exhibit these for sale shall be fined $5.

The House has adopted the joint resolution naming Governor Hunn, Attorney General H. H. Ward and George H. Bates as the Commission on the part of Delaware to confer with similar New Jersey Commission with reference to a proposed settlement of the controversy between the two States over territorial jurisdiction in the Delaware river within the 12-mile circle. Some members of the House objected to the adoption of the resolution in its original form, and wished the Commission prevented from conceding any territory short of the low-water mark on the Jersey shore, the territory over which Delaware claims jurisdiction.

Only one of the four Good Roads bills has been reported favorably by the committee on public highways. This bill is House Bill No. 1. Representative Tyre's bill.

The bill provides that the Governor shall appoint annually three competent persons who shall serve as the "Delaware Highway Commissioners." They shall be so appointed that the term of one shall expire in one year, one member in two years and one member in three years, from the first day of January, 1903. After that term of office of the commissioners shall last for three years. They shall each receive as compensation the sum of $1,200 and shall be required to give a bond of $5,000. The main office shall be in Dover with sub-offices in Wilmington and Georgetown.

HICKS' MARCH PREDICTIONS

The first storm period for March, says Hicks, will be central on the 4th, extending from the 3d to 7th. Storms of rain, with lightning and thunder will develop in western and southern sections, while in the northern section the rain will turn to sleet and snow, with cold winds and freezing weather.

The second storm period is central on the 9th and 10th. Cloudiness and storms of wind and rain will occur at this time. The full moon on the celestial equator on the 13th will draw the existing disturbances into the storm period central on the 16th. This storm period extends from the 13th to the 19th, falling at a time when it will get the full force of the vernal equinox. Rain and thunder storms will visit many interior localities and a colder storm will come out of the northwest, changing the rain to snow and ice, with possible one of the biggest blizzards of the season.

The reactionary period, from 20th to 22d, will most likely bring violent storms and tempests. Snow drifts, blockades and high, cold gales from the northwest will be some of the things to encounter during these equinoctial storms.

The last storm period in March will be central on the 27th, covering the 25th to 30th. We will name Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the 27th, 28th and 29th, as the central days of a danger period. Among the phenomena probably at this time, earthquakes and volcanic disturbances may be enumerated. Violent gulf and ocean cyclones, with phenomenal tides, will be most natural. Thunder storms, high winds and possible tornadoes are among the probabilities for many inland regions, especially in the Southern and Central States.

57TH CONGRESS AT END

Washington, March 6th.—The Fifty-seventh congress of the United States came to an end at noon yesterday. A remarkable demonstration in honor of the retiring speaker, David B. Henderson, marked the adjournment of the house. Members and spectators waved flags and shouted themselves hoarse with applause when Mr. Henderson, showing evidence of great emotion, rose to reply to resolutions of thanks which the house had adopted. A procession marched around the hall, and songs were sung. The newspaper men in the press gallery followed their time honored custom and sang "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," when the session ended.

IMMIGRANTS WANTED

A bill will probably be introduced at this session of the Legislature which will have for its object the bringing of desirable immigrants to this State.

The plan proposed is to give the State Board of Agriculture an appropriation sufficient to enable it to bring the claims of Delaware as a farming district to the attention of desirable people in foreign countries. It is not proposed to give them free land but to bring the attention of these people to the merits of Delaware lands and the prices for which it can be purchased.

Delaware has many acres of cheap farming land, which is exactly what is desired by the better class of immigrants from Germany, Holland and other European countries. Maryland has recently made efforts to secure immigrants in the same manner and has been successful.

MOLASSES FOR HORSE FOOD

A dispatch from Hagerstown, Md., says that if an experiment which is now being tried in that city by Dr. C. P. Smith & Bros., veterinary surgeons, proves successful, molasses will become a staple food for horses and take the place of oats. A few days ago the veterinarians commenced feeding their horses molasses, and at first they refused to take it but sparingly. Finally they grew to like the sweet, and now eat it with as much relish as oats or any other feed. Each horse is given a quart of pure New Orleans molasses to every ten pounds of hay. In addition to being a better food, the molasses saves 35 per cent. in the cost. The idea came from Porto Rico, where the natives feed their horses on grass mixed with molasses. The animals, it is said, are able to endure greater hardships.

DELAWARE WOMEN'S WAR AGAINST ADDICKS

Romantic Story of Thwarted Social Ambition in West Sunday's North American
The "Addicks fight" was also a woman's fight.

Did you know that? Perhaps not, for few people have recognized the power of the high-born women of Delaware in this long-drawn-out contest.

But that women have carried on the fight and have won all the honors so far won against the man who would break into the United States Senate through Delaware's door, will be shown in a timely and unusually interesting page story in the Sunday North American next Sunday. The photographs of the women warriors will be given, and the part each has played will be told in detail.

The women of Delaware have been fighting such a battle for years. The war against Addicks has been, and still is, a war against the social recognition of Mrs. Addicks No. 2, who was Mrs. Ida Carr Wilson, who in turn was Miss Ida Carr. A coterie of women who love the State because they were born in it of sires whose sires fought its battles generations ago; who rule its social world as their mothers and their grandmothers ruled it before them, have supplied the moral force which has kept the men in line.

It is a story which reads like a tale from French history. These well-born women of Delaware have been the implacable foes of Addicks and a woman's ambition. They have carried on their fight in a way which makes as romantic and thrilling a tale as any in which the favorites of the French courts figured. And they have—won! The tale is not yet done.

But as far as it has gone it is one of continuing interest.

The Sunday North American of next Sunday, March 8th, will tell this story for the first time as it was told to its special correspondent by the women who have figured in its making. In language unmistakably plain it will give the inside history of Addicks fight, which is a fight of Amazons.

OLD POINT COMFORT, RICHMOND AND WASHINGTON

The first personally-conducted tour to Old Point Comfort, Richmond and Washington via the Pennsylvania Railroad for the present season will leave New York and Philadelphia on Saturday March 14th.

Half the Peaches Killed

Charles Barker, of Milford, who is interested in peach production, has been making an examination of peach trees. He estimates that more than 50 per cent. of the buds have been killed by the recent cold snap. The preceding mild weather had started the trees to budding.

THE DORF'S BLACK-DRAUGHT THE ORIGINAL LIVER MEDICINE

A yellow complexion, dizziness, biliousness and a coated tongue are common indications of liver and kidney diseases. Stomach and bowel troubles, severe as they are, give immediate warning by pain, but liver and kidney troubles, though less painful at the start, are much harder to cure. Theodor's Black-Draught never fails to benefit diseased liver and weakened kidneys. It stirs up the torpid liver to throw off the germs of fever and ague. It is a certain preventive of cholera and Bright's disease of the kidneys. With kidneys reinforced by Theodor's Black-Draught thousands of persons have dwarfed immune in the midst of yellow fever. Many families live in perfect health and have no other doctor than Theodor's Black-Draught. It is always on hand for use in an emergency and saves many expensive calls of a doctor.

Austin, S. C., March 10, 1901. I have used Theodor's Black-Draught for three years and have not had to go to a doctor since I have been taking it. It is the best medicine for me that is on the market for liver and kidney troubles and dyspepsia and other complaints. Rev. A. G. LEWIS.

MEN'S OVERCOATS, SUITS AND TROUSERS REDUCED

The Oak Hall work-rooms are a splendid sight just now—everybody is busy on Spring goods. We are stubborn about one thing—Oak Hall Spring stock must be ready on time—and it must be the best stock that can be made.

Six weeks, at least, remain for the wearing of heavy weight clothing. The shorter the time the sharper the Oak Hall pruning knife. But we will make no further reductions. This is final.

You can depend upon these bargains. "Dependability" is the keystone of the Oak Hall arch. Whoever heard of a man dissatisfied with an Oak Hall transaction! There have been flaws, of course, but Oak Hall has satisfactorily met the flaw. Stores with the capacity to do the square thing are not too abundant.

Half prices on Men's Suits returned through the mail order department. The story is this—we do a big business by mail. The bulk of the suits are satisfactory. Some don't stick—sometimes our fault, sometimes some one else's; at any rate, we have no time for the returned suits. They are now marked Half Price.

$25.00 Suits for $12.50 | $18.00 Suits for $9.00
$22.50 Suits for $11.25 | $16.50 Suits for $8.25
$20.00 Suits for $10.00 | $15.00 Suits for $7.50

MEN'S OVERCOATS. Dark Oxford Mixtures, some lined with satin, the bulk of them with the famous Venetian lining, equal to any wear you care to levy upon it. $15.00 from $20.00—$13.50 from $18.00—$11.00 from $15.00—$9.00 from $12.00—$7.75 from $10.00.

MEN'S WORSTED TROUSERS. Thousands of pairs. Not a stock that drifted in, but the sturdy Oak Hall make. We know these worsteds, from the men who spin and weave the cloth to the men who tailored them. $5.00 from $7.00—$4.50 from $6.50—$4.00 from $6.00—$3.00 from $4.50.

The bazaar held at the home of Miss Ada Scott by the members of the Junior Epworth League last evening was largely attended. The program consisted of recitations, vocal solos, select readings, etc., and the occasion was one of much enjoyment.

The Methodist Episcopal Churches are near the close of their conference year and are endeavoring to secure the payment of debts, so that accounts may be in good shape for the year's settlement. The conference will meet in Easton, Md., March 18th.

Uncollected Letters.—The following list of letters remain uncollected in the post office for the week ending February 26th: Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, Miss Annie Redding, Mrs. Sarah Redding, Charles Rodes, John Launders, Linn Wates, George E. Wilson.

The farmers are a little perplexed over the genuine Spring-like weather which is at present prevailing. The conditions, they claim, would warrant them in rushing into the Spring work, but the weather is several weeks ahead of time, and they are fearful lest a Wintry blast may be lurking near.

Bethesda Epworth League meets in the lecture room of the M. E. Church every Sunday evening at 6:45 o'clock. Everybody is invited to attend. The topic for to-morrow evening is: "The Sabbath Day for Worship and Rest." Exod. 31:15-17; Mark 2:27. Mr. J. A. Sydnor, leader.

Flocks of geese have been passing north every evening recently, which is considered a sure sign that the cold weather is over. Each year the geese and ducks go south in the fall and stay there until the weather moderates sufficiently for them to return north and their return is considered the surest way of telling the break of winter.

A full attendance of the members and friends of Peach Blossom Grange, No. 3, is earnestly requested at the meeting to be held in McWhorter's Hall this afternoon at two o'clock. Mr. J. D. Deich, of Flourtown, Pa., will be the speaker, and as he is a large stock owner, his talk will undoubtedly be an interesting one to our dairymen and farmers.

The entertainment to be given at the Opera House this evening will consist of illustrated songs, etc., reproduced by the greatest of all talking machines—The New Victor. Children may procure a package of six tickets at Letherby's Hardware Store, and by selling five of them will be admitted free to the entertainment. Admission 15 cents.

The Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor of Forest Presbyterian Church, meets every Sunday evening at 6:45 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to everybody. The topic for to-morrow evening is: "Lesson from the Sermon on the Mount; What Christ Teaches about Heart-Righteousness." Matt. 5:20-48; 6:16-18. Miss Mary Maxwell, leader.

"Circumstantial Evidence," a realistic melodrama in four acts by James M. Martin, the well-known dramatist, will be seen for the first time in the Middletown Opera House, Monday, March 9th. The play abounds in many complex situations which are drawn true to life by a competent company of ladies and gentlemen, surrounded by special scenery, mechanical and electrical effects. The drama is a story of strong heart interest and is told in a masterful way by the author. It comes to us highly endorsed by both public and press and without doubt will be one of the strongest attractions of the kind which will appear in this town during the season. Seats now on sale at Letherby's Hardware Store.

According to the old adage, "the first three days of March rules the first three months of spring," and if this proves true in the year 1903, we may expect a very pleasant and propitious spring.

We have on hand or will order STOVE REPAIRS for all makes of stoves. Give us the number of your stove and the makers name, and we will give you the repairs at once.

Elizabeth, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Boulden, died at the residence of his parents on Anderson street on Friday last, aged 19 months. Interment was made in Forest Cemetery on Sunday.

The remains of William J. Hall, of Wilmington, who died on Sunday last, were brought here on Wednesday morning; interment being made in Cecilton M. E. Cemetery. Mr. Hall was a brother of the late C. R. Hall of this town.

NOTICE.—Cabbage Plants for sale cheap. Grown from trust seed of Jersey Wakefield and Big Charleston Wakefield. Will sell in large or small lots. Those wanting plants will do well to write me.

JOHN W. TAYLOR, Mapesville, Va.

John A. Scott, a freight brakeman, was slightly injured at the railroad station in this town yesterday morning. Scott was throwing a switch at the time the accident occurred and was struck by his own train which was backing in on a siding, but fortunately he did not fall under the wheels, and other than a lacerated scalp and a few bruises, he was unhurt. He was removed to his home in Wilmington after his wounds were dressed.

The remains of Ralph Mabrey, the 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Mabrey, who was drowned in Philadelphia on Saturday last, were brought here for interment on Thursday, and after funeral services, which were conducted in Bethesda M. E. Church by the Rev. C. T. Wyatt, the remains were entered in Forest Cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Mabrey were former residents of Middletown, but removed to Philadelphia about three years ago.

Mrs. Sarah A. Lynch, wife of Mr. P. J. Lynch, of near Mt. Pleasant, met with a very painful accident Monday morning. While walking across the kitchen she was so unfortunate as to stumble and fall heavily to the floor. She was quickly removed to her bed and Dr. G. B. Pearson, summoned, who informs us that while there is no bones broken, one of her hips is badly bruised, and the unfortunate lady suffered greatly from the shock.

Mrs. Lynch is one of the oldest ladies in this community, having passed the 81st mile stone in life's journey, and the news of her accident was a great shock to her large circle of relatives and friends, but it is to be hoped she will soon be out again.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered at Bethesda M. E. Church next Sabbath morning at 10:30 o'clock. Every member of the church is requested to be present, if possible. An opportunity will be given to those who may wish to unite with the church. Dr. W. E. Corkran, presiding elder of Eastern District, will preach to-morrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. Corkran is closing six years' term on the District and this will be his last official visit. Let the Methodist world be well represented next Sunday evening. On Monday morning at 10 o'clock Dr. Corkran will hold the fourth quarterly conference at Bethesda Church.

THE SMALLPOX SCARE

The case of smallpox discovered in Hantown on Tuesday was the cause of much excitement in our usually quiet town, but since the unfortunate colored man who was found suffering from the dreaded disease has been removed to the Emergency Hospital at Farmhurst, very little is heard of the case.

The local board of health acted promptly, and the double dwelling where the smallpox patient, William Harris, was discovered, was immediately quarantined, and after Harris had been removed the house was thoroughly fumigated, and the back doors and windows of the dwellings were nailed tight to prevent the present occupants from escaping from the madmen during the night.

Middletown has been very fortunate in the past, as almost every town on this Peninsula of any size has had one or more cases of smallpox, and we do not anticipate any further trouble. Harris had recently come to Middletown from Chesapeake, and was employed on the railroad, together with several other colored men. He had been complaining of feeling badly for several days before he consulted a physician, who advised him to go home immediately and notified the board of health of his discovery.

DELAWARE CITY FISHERMEN

Everything is bustle among the Delaware City fishermen getting ready for the coming season. Nets are being fixed and boats repaired. The river front would remind one of a carpenter shop. So busy are the men getting their boats, poles and nets ready to capture the herring and shad which frequent the waters in such large numbers.

The herring is likely to be in within a few days, as the weather governs their coming, and a few warm days will bring them out. The shad follow within about ten days or two weeks.

More than half of the population of Delaware City are engaged in this industry, and they make enough during the spring and summer months to allow them to live the balance of the year in idleness.

One reason why the fish go there in such large numbers is on account of the fresh water coming out of the canal. They come in these waters to spawn.

Some idea can be gained of the extent of the fishing-around Delaware City when 165,000 were caught in one day last season.

OUR TOWN FATHERS

The annual election of Town Commissioners took place on Monday, when the following citizens were chosen to guard our municipal rights and privileges, to keep our streets beautifully clean, to disburse our hard earned cash, to give their time and talent cheerfully and take our share of what they do and don't do, with becoming modesty: Messrs. William J. Wilson, L. Clarence Scott, and Harry L. Davis, Commissioners; Albert Price, Assessor; Edward Reynolds, Treasurer; Squire A. G. Cox, Alderman. The board met on the same evening, when the new members were sworn in. They will organize at the next regular meeting.

PERSONALITIES

Miss Mollie Wilson has returned from Philadelphia.

Mr. W. R. Parker was in Philadelphia on Thursday.

Miss Jennie Jones has returned from Salisbury, Md.

Mr. W. A. Hukill, Jr., was in Philadelphia Friday.

Miss Eva Whitlock spent Sunday with relatives in Chester, Pa.

Miss Hattie McCarthy, of North East, is the guest of Miss Florie Owens.

Miss Edith Derrickson is being entertained by friends in Bridgeton, N. J.

Dr. W. E. Cortin was the guest of Mr. George S. Hopkins Tuesday evening.

Mr. R. D. Hofferker, Jr., editor of the Smyrna Times, paid us a brief call Thursday.

Miss Stella Chandler, of Stanton, was the guest of Miss Jean Metten over Sunday.

Mrs. Horace McDaniel and daughter, of Wilmington, are visiting Mr. Joseph Geary on Lake street.

Miss Gertrude Swain, of St. Georges, has resumed her duties as saleslady in the store of Mrs. G. W. Peterson.

Miss Elizabeth Hopkins and friend, Miss Barry, of the Delaware State Hospital, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Hopkins Wednesday.

MAKES CHARGE CHARGES

There was a sensation created at the meeting of the Trustees of the Insane Hospital at Farmhurst Thursday morning, when Dr. W. E. Cortin made charges of incompetency and use of morphine against the superintendent, Dr. William Hancker.

Dr. Cortin was removed as assistant at the institution sometime ago, but in his application for reinstatement made the charges against the superintendent.

Dr. Hancker denied the charges in an emphatic way, and demanded that they be investigated. The trustees will look into the matter. Dr. Cortin's application for return to the institution was laid upon the table by the trustees.

In his denunciation, Dr. Cortin said that the superintendent was entirely too lax in regard to the quarantine of the institution. He sighted one instance where a man had driven twenty miles in a closed carriage with a smallpox patient and was allowed to circulate freely among the inmates. He further claimed that the drivers of the quarantine wagons came and went as they chose, and that the spread of the disease among the patients of the institution was due to these facts.

The board will sustain Dr. Hancker and passed a motion allowing him to use his own judgment regarding the quarantine at the institution.

BYRNE REAPPOINTED

WASHINGTON, March 6th.—The President today again sent to the Senate the nomination of William M. Byrne to be United States attorney for the district of Delaware.

During the last session of the Senate the committee on judiciary recommended the rejection of the appointment of Byrne, and it was believed that the President would withdraw his name. The recent election of two United States senators in Delaware, however, has apparently changed the situation and the reappointment is the result.

The original appointment of Byrne was successfully opposed by the anti-Addicks Republicans because he ran for Congress on the Union Republican ticket against the present senator, Dr. Lewis Heister Ball (Regular Rep.), thereby permitting the election of Henry A. Houston (Dem.). As Dr. Ball led the fight against Byrne's confirmation his course now will be awaited with interest. Senator Allen, who is a Union Republican, will, of course, support Byrne.

COAL WILL BE CHEAPER

The price of anthracite coal will soon be lowered by the large railway companies. Warm weather and an expectation on the part of the public of a cut in the rate on April 1st, have checked buying to such an extent as to make the market for coal heavy. The stock held by the companies is accumulating and the only way to reduce it and help business activity is to lower the price. The date of the reduction has not been announced, although it will not be later than April 1st. It has been customary for the coal companies to reduce coal 50 cents a ton at that time in order to give the public an inducement to purchase a winter stock. After that time a monthly advance of ten cents is made until the full price is restored in September.

FLINN TO SUCCEED SHORT

William R. Flinn will succeed John C. Short as United States marshal for Delaware. Mr. Flinn will not accept the new position until the end of the present term, March 18th. He gets the place as a reward for the part he played in having J. Frank Allee elected as long term senator and Dr. L. H. Ball short term senator. It is said that the matter was brought to the attention of the President Wednesday in Washington, and that he took occasion to express his approval that the two senatorial vacancies had been filled.

It is said that the appointment of Flinn meets with the approval of Allee and Ball.

MARINE RAILWAY

Messrs. Henry H. Brady, John Banks, W. A. Alexander, George K. Houck and Elmore Delbert have applied for a certificate of incorporation for the Chesapeake City Marine Railway and Construction Company and will act as directors for the first year. Mr. Brady has been chosen President; Mr. Alexander, Vice-President; Mr. Houck, Secretary; and Mr. Delbert, Manager. The capital stock is $10,000. The principal office will be at Chesapeake City. The company will erect a marine railway at Chesapeake City and conduct in connection with it a general business in the way of building and repairing boats.

The County School Board

The New Castle County School Commissioners, at their meeting in Wilmington Wednesday afternoon, considered matters pertaining to a number of schools. The board is now completing three colored schools and expects to build four or five more during the year. Projects are under consideration for schools at Christina, Carvers, Odessa, Iron Hill and Port Penn.

DECISION OF THE COURT

In contemplation of law, the General Assembly is still in session, and the members are back to their desks confident that the courts will not upset their work on the ground of illegality of their meetings. Five of the judges agree on this point and the sixth, Judge Grubb is away.

Judge James Pennell was in Wilmington Thursday to confer with Chief Justice Lore and Judges Spruance and Boyce on the question submitted by Governor John H. Hunn as to the legality of the General Assembly's session from Thursday on a question having been raised thereto because a less number than a quorum of the House had adjourned for more than one day. The constitutional provision is that such a number may adjourn "from day to day." So much stress was thrown on the difficulty in Dover that the House did no business and the Senate very little, although some time was put on committee work. The Democratic members, some of them at least, felt that they had found a point on which they could pierce the armor of the Republicans and they proceeded to insert their weapons in the aperture, but their plans, on that line is to be short lived.

Judge Pennell laid the matter before the other judges, and it did not take them long to agree that the General Assembly is not the least vitiated by the trouble concerning Tuesday's adjournment. As chief Justice Lore expressed it, the adjournment by members from Tuesday to Thursday was illegal and void and did not dissolve the General Assembly, and when they meet again they will still be, in contemplation of law, a legal assembly.

The formal reply was prepared at Judge Spruance's residence Thursday night and was mailed to Dover. Chancellor John R. Nicholson was communicated with over the telephone and his view is understood to coincide with that of the other judges.

The one question before the judges was whether the Senate and House of Representatives were on the fifth day of March, in legal session, and their unanimous answer is that they were.

There is no question about any of the adjournments of the Legislature except that which was made by less than a quorum of the House from Tuesday to Thursday, as the constitution allows less than a quorum only to adjourn from day to day, that adjournment being for a longer period was forbidden by the constitution and is void, and therefore the legislative session of day of Tuesday continued through Wednesday until Thursday, when a quorum assembled.

It is understood that Attorney-General Herbert H. Ward's view coincides with that of the judges.

With the judges' favorable decision, the Legislature will be able to get down to business, and from now on, there is plenty of work to be considered.

Chief Justice Lore recalled an experience of his when he was clerk of the Senate in 1867. It was at the time of a heavy snow fall and for a week the sessions were interrupted, a quorum not being able to get to Dover, but a smaller number than a quorum adjourned from day to day. On one day of the week, he walked through the snow from Middletown to Dover, a distance of twenty-five miles. He started at 8 in the morning and arrived at 6 in the evening.

MAY SETTLE DISPUTE

Unless members of the Delaware General Assembly should order differently it is expected that the boundary dispute between Delaware and New Jersey will be settled without any decision on the part of the supreme court at Washington. There is a feeling growing that all that both states desire is that residents of both shall be allowed to fish in any portion of the river which they may select.

It is claimed that for some kinds of fishing the New Jersey side is better while the Delaware side is better for shad and for some other varieties. It does not make any difference to the fishermen of either state whether New Jersey or Delaware owns the bed of the river so long as they are allowed to fish in it.

This was the view of the matter taken by the Delaware fishermen at the meeting held in Delaware City on Tuesday night and it appears to be the view of fishermen in both states. They are about the only persons interested in the dispute because the trouble has grown out of the New Jersey people arresting Delaware men for fishing on their side and Delaware preparing to retaliate.

McCLOSKEY CASE POSTPONED

In County Court Thursday the case of Francis A. McCloskey, charged with obtaining money by false pretense in connection with the printing of the registration lists, was carried over until the May term.

John M. Rogers, the leading witness for the State, was unavoidably absent.

At Wednesday afternoon's session the case of Daniels vs. Charles DeK. Townsend, wherein judgment had been obtained at a previous term, was again brought up to have the amount of damages decided upon by a jury. W. S. Hiller presented the case, and a verdict of $5,000 damages was rendered. The boy Daniels is about 13 years of age, and about two years ago he was injured by the brick and mortar that covered him when Mr. Townsend's house fell down in the city of New Castle. The defendant in the case was absent at both trials, not even being represented by an attorney.

Eight Horses Burned Alive

Soon after the midnight hour on Sunday the stables, barn and implement shed on the farm of Harvey J. Irvine, near Halls X Roads, about seven miles from Centreville, were totally destroyed by fire, the result of an explosion of a lantern. Along with the buildings six working and driving horses, two valuable colts and a pair of mules were burned alive, and a number of farming implements were destroyed; a large quantity of seed corn, wheat and fodder was also consumed.

The Sunday School Missionary Anniversary at Asbury M. E. Church on Sunday was largely attended. The program was enthusiastically rendered. The receipts were up to those of last year, one class reached $10.

The Fourth Quarterly Conference of the Warwick Church was held at Sassafraz Rehoboth M. P. Church on Saturday morning last. At which time Mr. Robert S. Griffith was elected delegate to represent the Rehoboth Church at the M. A. Conference, to be held at Pocomoke City, April 1st. At the same time William H. Spry was elected as alternate.

GOOD ROADS BILL

Only one of the four Good Roads bills has been reported favorably by the committees on public highways. This bill is House Bill No. 1, Representative Tyre's bill. This bill will come for final passage this week and a strong sentiment is being created in its favor.

The bill provides that the Governor shall appoint annually three competent persons who shall serve as the "Delaware Highway Commissioners." They shall be so appointed that the term of one shall expire in one year, one member in two years and one member in three years, from the first day of January, 1903. After that the term of office of the commissioners shall last for three years. They shall each receive as compensation the sum of $1,200 and shall be required to give a bond of $5,000. The main office shall be in Dover with sub-offices in Wilmington and Georgetown.

A MEASURE OF WHEAT

BY EDGAR L. HAMPTON

The school-teacher had said: "To-day is Saturday and I'm going down to Sheridan to raise the money necessary to rent your farm for the next year, in accordance with your proposal of last night. I take it you threw out that bait to me, Mr. Keating, to test my temper. I accept your proposition and shall be ready to close with you this evening. I also feel from the bottom of my heart for those poor people starving in India, and I should like an option on your hundred thousand bushels of wheat at the figure named. I may be able to raise a subscription and send it to them."

Yer a blanked idjit, shouted the old man wildly. Let the heathen take care of himself. I'll rent you my farm," he added, if you make me suitable terms; but you can't have my wheat for no thirty-five cents. That was yesterday, and my price has gone up. But I'll tell you what I will do—the spirit of traffic was rising up strong within him—I'll call it forty cents and a go—though it's my opinion you're a stark, starin' idjit, he added under his breath.

The young man smiled. His eyebrows narrowed shrewdly. If you'll split the difference I'll consider it, he said.

Not a cent less, shouted the old man, all excitement. One hundred thousand bushels, no more and no less, and at forty cents—I don't have to sell!

Wheat is only thirty cents now, and I won't consider it at forty, but I ask an option at thirty-eight urged the young man firmly. And the deal was left open.

When Richard returned that night he brought with him a thousand dollars, his own savings and a promise of credit at the Sheridan Bank on his personal note and a mortgage on the crop, less rentals, for whatever he might require up to ten thousand dollars.

After splitting hairs till near midnight, old man Keating signed the lease for one year and then went out by the well in the moonlight and called himself a "tarnel o' fool."

On his return to the house Richard went at him diligently, with the money spread out on the table between them, and under this talismanic influence the old man, loosening up in a manner to astonish the entire household, offered him a six months' option at thirty-eight cents. Then Richard proposed to buy a thousand dollar deposit, and one year's time on the balance at five per cent interest. They finally compromised at thirty-eight cents, and six per cent, signed the contract, and Richard paid over the money.

That night the rain came. Gentle, insinuating at first, a few great drops here and there; then faster and faster on the parched roofs and dust-laden leaves, like the patter of shot, or the rattling roll of a drum calling to action.

For a week the rain continued intermittently, saturating the earth. Then team followed team in long, sober procession into the fields; steam puffs noisily out of summer retreats, and the fall breaking began.

Richard Morrison pulled off his coat and went to work. By the conditions of his contract he was to have the use of all stock and farm implements and he had retained the hired men. Arrangements were readily made for a substitute to finish his term of school; and Richard's time was soon fully occupied with the work in hand.

As autumn waned into winter, and the long, level stretches of valley became dim with mist and rain, there was an enforced leisure, and the weight of the responsibility he had undertaken grew upon him until it assumed at times the haunting, ghostly shape of failure. But he was used to thinking much and keeping his own counsel. His temperament was such that, once thoroughly in the race, he was willing to stand for all by his own judgment. "If my business training is ever to stand me in hand, now is the time," he thought fiercely, and went ahead.

Throughout all he made just one confident—Helen. He had discovered his great scheme to her—had evolved his theory with its different international influences, sitting all one windy winter evening by the kitchen fire with the slant rain coming against the windows, and the Chinook singing through the treetops like lost drays, and she, in full sympathy with his plans—since they two had conspired to make common cause against the designs of an arrogant old man—had clapped her hands in delighted admiration, but had been frightened at his daring. However, with all her secret apprehensions she was too tactful a woman ever to dream of discouraging him with a word about failure. Instead, there were small schemes and conspiracies innumerable—long buggy rides to night entertainments at Lafayette and Newberg, with return trips the next day, to help fill in the lapse of time. Then Susie Te-rill, Charles Fair-bury and other college friends came up to the farm for a week at a stretch, when the big, old house would ring from moss-grown roof to basement with shouts and music, with the clatter and lisp of feet and the banging of doors, till Mrs. Keating would stop in the middle of the floor and hold up both her hands in feigned dismay. All these days the rain pounded intermittently against the outside of the windows.

Spring came with its west winds, its bud of promise, and found the young farmer in shirt and denim overalls, making plank defense and watching the market. He had subscribed for the Daily Oregonian, an act which curled old man Keating's lip in scorn, for old man Keating persistently refused to read a newspaper, considering the practice an evidence of weakness. But the markets were in the Oregonian, and a great deal of news about famines abroad and the menace of pending war in home.

That spring of '98 was in many respects the hardest one in the latter history of the valley. Orchards were laden with bloom; the sun kissed health into the hop vines; the earth was a veritable carpet of waving, tossing wheat; but prices were hopeless, lying out at the bottom. Hop buyers came through the country contracting for the season's yield at six cents, and they did business. Portland shippers looked blue over the prospect of tons of green fruit that had already begun to split the trees all over the valley. And wheat lay dead at thirty cents. It had not moved for months.

There was just one big wave that threw up a spray along the Oregon coast that spring. When Richard read in the papers, with great scareheads and illustrations, about the blowing up of the Maine in Havana Harbor and the imminence of war, he rushed at Helen, who was beating a cake in the kitchen, and gave her such an embrace as startled her out of returning him the customary cuff on the ear.

What did you do that for, Mister? she demanded threateningly. Why! he shouted, the Spaniards have blown up the Maine at Havana; we're sure to have war! You heartless beast! declared the girl. I suppose you're going to enlist at once. In fact, I hope you do."

No, I'm not; but don't you see? No, I don't see. No! Of, of course not. You're only a woman. And he grabbed his hat, and made out of the house and upon the hill where there was more air and room.

Then the current of affairs ran desperately low again in the valley. The sorrows of a famine abroad were eclipsed by the prospect of war at home. But Oregon was so far removed from the seat of activity at Washington that her farmers felt only an indifferent concern. Moreover, their chief interest was centered around the price of wheat and prunes, and these gave forth no sign. So the "ranchers" drove listlessly up and down the valley, stopped and talked long to each other, leaning upon the fences, anxious to realize upon their crops, but obstinately waiting for the world's market to move first.

They were gloomy days for Richard Morrison. When he thought of the hundred thousand bushels of wheat that lay dead, eight cents below the purchase price, and the intolerably heavy expenses of the crop that were upon his shoulders, he was almost distraught.

And then he saw, perhaps for the first time in his life, the true mission of woman, and had the first sweet taste of a love that stands by a man in trouble. Don't worry, Dick, dear; I know it will all come out right. That was all she could give him just then—and that her looks. But what, truly, could have been more eloquently convincing? He was encouraged for nearly a week. Hereafter everything pertaining to the famine in Europe and the plenty in America. He hung with almost breathless suspense upon the actions of Congress, and chafed fearfully under the President's delay. Then he began to doubt the wisdom of his great enterprise, and even questioned his own sense.

Finally, in despair, he dashed off a telegram.

He awaited an answer just three days. Then a messenger came bounding up the Sheridan road, bringing a cloud of dust with him—and a telegram. Richard broke the seal and read, under a Chicago date line:

RICHARD MORRISON, Sheridan: Wheat on the jump. Buy quick. Hold for advance. J. C. K.

It was evening. She was coming down the path toward him, he knew she was. He could see her and the roses at her throat with a spray of dogwood bloom. Her face was looking at him as in a dream. The glint of sunlight was on her gold hair.

Helen, he said, holding out the bit of paper. Something in his throat was choking him.

She took the telegram, read, and dropped it upon the grass.

My own Richard, she said, and put her two hands caressingly upon his face, but tears were in her eyes as she spoke. My Richard is always right. I knew it would all come true.

That day Congress had declared war against Spain.

All over the valley the green billows were changing to brown. A new life was in the country. Farmers drove a little faster—excepting Furious Foster, who couldn't possibly—talked a little bricker and not so long. The buzz and boom of traffic were everywhere; everywhere men were doubly occupied in putting in canvas drapers, and tightening nuts on headers and harvesters.

Old man Keating generously assisted Richard and the hired men with their work. The drivers swung out their long whips over the twenty-four horse teams and drove the harvesters into the field. The sun came down hot upon the horses' backs and there was a continual swish, swish of wheat and the thrud of heavy bags of grain from morning till late at night. One after another they went along the solid banks of standing grain, and where they passed the stubble was thickly strewn with sacks of wheat. Men with teams followed after, gathering up the yield and transporting it to the railroad for shipment. And they could not be too diligent to suit present needs; for every day saw prices advanced.

Through it all Richard kept a watchful eye on business. The newspapers assisted him to keep his finger continually upon the world's pulse. Telegrams came every day from Chicago, and his own special messenger brought them to him on swift hoof.

Before the first day of the threshing every available team had been detailed to haul the stored grain to the warehouses, and bank it, against pending emergencies. At the end of the tenth day the harvesters took up the line of march out of the field, and Richard knew that his thousand acres had yielded him just forty thousand bushels of yellow wheat.

He now set about with feverish intensity to watch the market. A dizzy success had already evolved out of his first crude plan; but there was yet a possibility of losing all. Here's where my strategy must avail, he said to himself, and went to laying plans.

And he made a fair beginning. That same evening as he stood by the front gate he saw a cloud of dust and knew that Furious Foster was coming up the road. Foster saluted with a broad, circumspect sweep of his arm. His horse was trotting low, under whip. Evidently he had not intended to tarry.

Hold on there, shouted Richard, in despair of bringing him to a halt. I want to know what you will take for that farm of yours. Heard it was for sale. Fifty thousand dollars, yelled Furious Foster back at him, cracking his whip. Late for supper. Can't stop. Wheat's still a-rizzin'—and he was gone.

Richard had entered into negotiations with the warehouse dealers. His grain was all delivered and he stood ready to close the deal at a moment's notice. As for the warehouses, they had long since refused to contain the grain that had been thrust at them. They were already bursting with fullness, and upon the river bank appeared acres of sacks, piled into huge pyramids. The price had already gone to ninety-five cents. But when so many thousand bushels are at stake the careful farmer can do no better than to consider the fractions.

Richard's faith in his friend on the inside of the Chicago market was unbounded. At the last he felt, somehow, that the work must be quick. So he stayed in Sheridan day and night, stopping at the hotel, with an eye on the telegraph office.

Wheat had now gone to ninety-nine cents. Men were selling all about him, and Richard's ears were besieged with free advice from "ranchers" who knew wheat better than they did their own wives. But Richard trusted to his understanding of the situation, and, though the suspense was great, still he waited.

Then suddenly one morning the market jumped to one dollar and five, and everybody gasped.

The young man almost staggered that morning as he got into the railway station; and his eyes fed hungrily upon the little electric instruments that seemed so busy talking around the world.

That afternoon it came, ticking over the wires in the smoky little box of an office.

The operator mechanically reached over the counter and handed him the paper with a knowing smile.

I guess you're 'it, he said.

Richard caught the precious scrap out of the man's hands, and his eyes fairly burned into it as he read.

RICHARD MORRISON, Sheridan: Market full; sell quick. J. C. K.

Three minutes later he was at the desk of the elevator company and within thirty minutes he was stuffing the drafts for the full amount of wheat into his pocket.

The next day the market was steady at ninety-eight cents.

That evening as the family sat on the front porch enjoying the luxury of midsummer-time, old man Keating was interrupted, in a card parlor of the market reports in the daily paper—he had lately acquired some degree of the daily paper habit—by the young man who used to be a schoolteacher.

Mr. Keating, he remarked, after a reflective silence, what price do you place upon your farm?

Old man Keating peered cautiously at the speaker over the rim of his paper, pretending not to see him; before he finally answered. He had long since learned to expect the usually unexpected from this young man.

Then he put down the paper. Land and improvements, he said, though I'm not anxious to sell—I've always held at sixty thousand dollars, cash. Why, have you a buyer?

"That price will be satisfactory to me, sir," replied Richard promptly, emphasizing the pronoun. My only condition will be that you put in the girl. There was a twinkle in his eye, but the old man did not see it.

The girl blushed beautifully. Old man Keating squared around at his adversary with a fierce look. Yes, I guess yer at yer same old tricks ag'in, ain't yuh, young man? he urged severely.

No, sir, replied Richard; it's a plain business proposition: a question of girls, farms and wheat. If I have to buy the farm to get the girl, why, I guess I can do it. I'm dead earnest.

The old man's face assumed a comical look of defeat. Well, I s'pose you'd better take the girl, he said at last. I don't care so much about that; she seems to rather like you. But you can't have the farm, he added emphatically. Nobody can beat me out of a roof to die under in my old age—not when I've got my faculties.

Do you think you've got 'em all, Pa? inquired the girl mischievously. But old man Keating paid no attention to her. Though temporarily defeated, he still had his sign-out for business. Hecatered his head as if an entirely new thought was just taking root in side of it, though in fact, what he had in mind had been there for months, ever since the crops began to head, and Furious Foster had come by and said that wheat had "rizz."

Let me see, he said; there's neighbor Foster's thousand acres that jines me on the west. Foster told me the other day if any one could nosin' round he might sell Said he'd take fifty thousand dollars at a pinch. Why don't you buy that?

When Dick and Helen were married at Christmas a throng of young folk were present and the house was full of people. The next day they all drove to Sheridan in carriages to see them take the train for a trip East.

The laughing young people threw old shoes and slippers, and old man Foster pulled off his boot and threw it—and he could well afford to, for hadn't he just sold his farm to them and got the money? But that other accompaniment of a wedding journey, that other harbinger of good luck, which they threw all over the happy couple, all over the seats and even in at the windows after the train had started, was not rice at all; it was wheat. —Saturday Evening Post.
